

FIRST STUDENTS OF SHOOOL OF AGRICULTURE RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

"God save the King" was sung by the audience and during the social evening and dance which followed until the early hours of the morning, the graduates received the personal congratulations of their many friends who had come to witness this important step in their life.

or enjoining themselves; I've started a reform to kill the business or spoil the town. I don't want the young folks to stay in this town and I will do all I can by law, rule and ordinance to drive them away. It pains me, O Lord, that in spite of my reforming it is beginning to grow. Someday I fear I will be called upon to pay mortgage tax for putting down sidewalks in front of my property and my wife knows but what I may have to help keep the streets that run by my house clean, O Lord, and I will be poorer than I could be. It would cost me the money though all I have was made right here in this town. Then, too, more people might come if the town begins to grow, which would cause me to lose some of my pull. I think, therefore, to keep this town as it is, O Lord, that I may continue to be cheerful."

The Official Eye Witness with the British Army has issued a warning against the suggestion that the Germans are a beaten nation. He says that they are still well organized, have abundant resources, are fed up with illusions, and are still confident of ultimate success. No imitation was needed of the magnitude of the war that is being fought, but, if there is any such surely supplies. In addition there is also vivid indication that the area of the war will spread in the near future, and that countries now experiencing unrest in their attitude of neutrality will break in on one side or the other. This of course means further withdrawals from agricultural and industrial activities, and the inevitable result will be in Europe of all kinds of foodstuffs, grain, vegetables and live stock, and of horses. This depletion will have to be made up from countries

It should be interesting to the farmers of this vicinity to know that nitro-culture for inoculating Alfalfa, Red Clover, Crimson Clover and Peas, is prepared at the Provincial School of Agriculture, Claresholm, at 25 cents per bottle, to cover postage and cost of production. Full instructions are sent with each bottle. One bottle will inoculate 60 pounds of seed.

The Auction sale conducted by J. A. Parry, for Robert Whitehead, at his premises south east of Claresholm yesterday, was a marked success. This sale was well attended and everything sold at at A No. 1 prices. And bespeaks much for the able manner in which the auctioneer handled the sale.

In many dairy sections in Canada is quite possible, judging from official figures, to find a herd of cows producing milk at a feed cost of only sixty-two cents, or less, per hundred

AN EARLY ADVERTISER

One of the earliest advertisers on record was Noah. Day after day he announced the fact that there was going to be a great flood, and that in preparation for the same he was constructing an ark, on which a few people with good characters might escape passage. He got the many la-ha and even when it did begin to rain, his fellow townsmen said they guessed that it wasn't going to be much of a shower, anyway. Again Noah advertised the fact that state rooms could be engaged on the ark, but as no one applied for them he filled them up with elephants, and others of such critters.

It was not until Shem and Ham pulled in the gang planks that the people realized that Noah had not deceived them with his announcements. Then there was a rush for the box office, but it was closed and the ark was beyond the three mile limit. There was terrible excitement in town that night, but next morning all was quiet under six fathoms of water.

There isn't much of a moral to this except it be that when a good, honest, reliable man advertises people should believe him.

WHISKY ADS BANNED

The ban placed upon advertising of spirituous liquor through the medium of bill posts by the Poster Advertising company of the United States and Canada, will prohibit this form of advertising in all the cities of Canada. Whether any other form of public advertising of liquor will be able to be indulged in is a moot point, but so far as bill posting is concerned, under the present contracts are fulfilled no further bills will be posted.

A very large majority of the bill posting companies throughout Canada act under the franchise granted and the ban as placed by the Poster Advertising company will affect all the cities, towns and villages where bill posting is used. After May 31, no further contracts will be entered into and in any event no further bill posting will be done after the end of this year.

Notice to Subscribers

We wish again to call the attention of the public to the fact that all subscriptions and accounts due to the Review prior to January 1, 1914 must be paid at this office, and not to H. Duncan. As there is an order in the Court forbidding Mr. Duncan, of collecting these accounts, receipts issued by him for same are not valid.

WOMEN SHOULD HAVE MONEY

Having the bills paid is all very well, it's much better than not having them paid. But women like the handling of money as well as do the men. They like to pay for their own purchases and open their own parcels. If you men cannot sympathize with this eccentricity, consider how well you like to clip the ends from your own cigars and open your own mail, writes Laina Hart, in Collier's. Consider how well you'd have liked going through college with all your bills paid, but not a cent in your pocket. Consider, while you are considering how you would like being asked to a banquet, and having somebody else eat for you. I know women whose fathers were millionaires and whose bills were paid without question, who were compelled to wait for the carriage, whatever their errand or its distance, because they never had car fare. Invariably these women were reckless in extravagance. They rarely asked the price of things they ordered, as it was a matter of no concern to them. Yet with the rare and precious cash dollars that came their way they were economical to the verge of stinginess. The moral thereof is plain.

If you would have your women economical, let them handle money and learn to respect its value. There may be women who have not sufficient womanliness to honor the confidence this trust implies; but there are exceptions. If such be your daughter it is your business to teach her otherwise. If she be your wife it is your own fault for having married them.

When a father gives his son an allowance he should do the same for his daughter; not as a matter of material favor—for the daughter's bills might double the son's allowance—but as a matter of discipline, of financial experience and education. The girls who live and keep their selves within the limits of a stipulated allowance are usually the best dressed yet their bills are invariably smaller. It is to their interest to get all they can for their money and their dollars go twice as far as the girls whose bills are paid.

And there are the girls whose training is fitting them to be good wives and helpmates of men, provided the men they marry have sufficient shrewdness to share their confidences and their incomes, and to trust their wives to aid in making the family fortunes solid.

In the humbler walks of life, where the husband's earnings are so scant it is incredible that they can cover the mean necessities of life, those households are uniformly more thrifty where the husband turns over his life earnings to the wife. His days are full of toil and his evenings of fatigue. He has neither the time nor the energy to figure and "plan to make both ends meet. But somehow she manages to supply their wants and keep the bills paid, and somewhere, though he cannot see just how she does it, there's a nest egg growing by hard saved dimes and dollars for the inevitable rainy day.

Notice Of Judicial Sale Of Farm Lands

Pursuant to the Order made in the action of the Dominion of Canada Investment and Debenture Company, Limited, vs. Daniel Burbank, the Southeast Quarter of Section 36 in Township 13, Range 28, west of the 4th Meridian, Alberta, will be sold by public auction at two o'clock on Saturday, the 17th day of April, A. D. 1915, at or near the Post Office, Staveland, Alberta.

The property consists of 160 acres more or less, situate 4 1/2 miles from Staveland. The Vendor is informed that 40 acres of the land are broken and that the land is fenced on three sides. The soil is said to be dark loam with clay subsoil. There are no buildings.

The purchaser will pay 15 per cent of the purchase price on the day of the sale, 15 per cent, in 90 days thereafter without interest and the balance in three equal instalments in 1, 2 and 3 years respectively, with interest at 8 per cent. In all other respects the conditions approved by a Judge or the Master in Chambers will apply. Further particulars may be obtained from Lent, Jones & Mackay, Calgary Alberta, Solicitors for the Vendor.

DATED at the City of Calgary, Alberta, this day of January A. D. 1915.

LAURENCE J. CLARKE,
3-25-8 Clerk of the Court.

The 1915 Spring Stock Show

The prize list for the forthcoming Spring Stock Shows to be held at Calgary, April 21st to 23rd, just issued, includes over $5000 in prizes. This generous prize list was made possible owing to assistance given by the Dominion and Provincial Governments. The prize list includes classification for the various purebreds as well as agricultural and heavy draft children's classes and special prizes offered by the Canadian and British Clydesdale Associations and the Shire Association of Great Britain. Entries close on the 10th of April. An auction sale of horses will also be held on the last day of the show. The judging will take place in the mornings and afternoons, no show being held in the evening. Saddle and driving classes have therefore been discontinued for this year.

The auction sale and show of pure bred bulls will be held at the same time. Over 350 purebred bulls will be offered for sale. Special arrangements have been made for the transportation of both cattle and horses, and special passenger rates have been secured of single fare for the return trip for Alberta points. Prize lists and outcups may be had from E. L. Richardson, secretary, Alberta Live Stock Association, Calgary.

Yes, There Is MONEY In EGGS

Have you ever stopped to think that a hen will lay 100 eggs a year. Certified statistics tell us that it costs five a dozen to produce eggs. People in the business say that fresh eggs average five a dozen. This leaves a net profit of 25c a dozen. 30c net on 150 eggs is $4.50, which you should make net profit on each hen. If you had 1000 hens it would be $4,500 you should make net profit. If you are earning less than this amount per year, come to my office and let us talk the matter over. You can buy a model farm for $150 cash, the balance spread over a term of years. Model farms are all cleared no stumps or stones to contend with. They are situated on the main line of the Canadian Northern Railroad, are connected with the city of Kamloops by a good automobile road; the Hydro-Electric Line of the city of Kamloops passes through the property which will supply light and power. Model farms are situated right on the bank of the North Thompson river, which supplies ample water for irrigation. Model farms are cleared farms. The price is only $150 on acre or $150 for five acres. $150 cash and balance spread over five years.

Fill out the coupon below and mail it to me at once, and I will send you further particulars.

MARCHING ARMIES

For Infantry Fifteen Miles is a Good Day's Work.

HORSES MAKE TWENTY MILES

But to Do This Day After Day Requires Good Artillery Stock and Almost Perfect Conditions—The Pace For Soldiers in Various Countries.

The infantry pace varies in detail in the armies of the nations. It varies not only in length of step, but in the number of steps to the minute, and each nation, of course, thinks its own step is the best.

One peculiar step, known as the "parade march," or "goose step," is used at times by German soldiers. No other army has a step similar to it. The German goose step consists in throwing out the legs without bending the knees, and it is used only on ceremonial occasions, in changing guard and when a detachment of men pass an officer of high rank.

The rate of march of a detachment of infantry in active service depends on many factors, including the size of the marching body or the length of the column, the training, physical condition and spirit of the troops, the road and the weather.

Two and a half miles an hour and fifteen miles a day is a good average for seasoned infantry carrying of course, field equipment. Seasoned troops in good spirits and spurred by the prospect of action may be depended on to do much better than this when the situation requires it, but when an infantry division or even a brigade has moved over fifteen miles of road in one day it has done a day's work.

Stonewall Jackson's "foot cavalry" of the valley now and then covered forty miles in one march, but it was extraordinary infantry.

In some of the press reports from the Russo-Japanese war it was given out that on occasion large bodies of Japanese infantry covered fifty miles of road in a day and night and came up on the firing line fresh enough to shoot. But a great many prodigies were accredited to Japanese troops in that war.

It has long been a saying among military men of countries other than France that the French soldier has the best legs in Europe, and the mobility of an army depends on its feet and legs. Infantry is as good as its feet. An infantryman who can march and shoot is worth a regiment of men who struggle, burn shade, pant for water, develop blisters on the feet and keep their ears picked up only for more call, sick call and recall.

In the American army the length of the full step in quick time is thirty inches, measured from heel to heel, and the cadence is at the rate of 120 steps to the minute. At 120 steps to the minute the soldier marches 3,000 inches a minute, which equals 100 yards. And marching 100 yards a minute he will march 6,000 yards in one hour, or three and nine twenty-seconds of a mile—a little over three and a half miles. They do not do this precariously because time must be taken out for rest.

The British infantry step is thirty-one and one-half inches, the longest of all the steps. Germany keeps step with Switzerland, each doing thirty-one inches, while twenty-nine inches is the pace of the armies of Italy, France and Austria. The Russians take the shortest step, twenty-seven and one-half inches and twenty-two inches a minute. The German infantryman does 114, the Austrian 118 and the French and Italian each manage 120. Consequently, to march a mile takes the Russian twenty minutes, the Austrian eighteen and two-thirds minutes, the French and Italian eighteen minutes, while the Germans could beat this by ten or eleven seconds.

A fair day's march for a battery or battalion or regiment of field artillery is twenty miles, but to make this day after day on the usual American road without killing the horses not only requires good artillery stock and perfect fitting harness and drivers who have some native intelligence and into whom discipline has been hammered. The usual practice in the light artillery is to march for fifty minutes and halt and rest ten minutes. During that rest, which is mainly in the interest of the horses, collars are opened and laid back so that a horse's shoulder may be relieved and cooled, and, of course, the limber props are let down so that the weight of the pole may be taken off the necks of the wheelers—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

London Earthquakes. London has not altogether escaped the ravages of earthquakes. In February and March of 1750 Londoners were startled out of their wits by a terrible shock. The people were so alarmed that thousands spent the night parading the streets in a state of frantic terror, and Hyde park was crowded with campers out, the more daring willing away the hours by playing cards by candlelight.

Flimsy. "Why aren't you going to the ball tonight?" "I hate a slight cold." "You can wrap up well." "I know. But I don't think my ball gown would stand a shower."—Washington Herald.

CRITICISM LEVELED AT "MADE-IN-CANADA"

Who is Most Loyal—the Man Who Pays the Duty or the Man Who Provides Work?

Nothing succeeds like success! The "Made-in-Canada" appeal has been as pervasive during the past few months that it has stirred up criticism here and there among some Canadians. This is perhaps the best tribute possible to the compelling force of the movement, which has swept over Canada since the war began. If the propaganda for the purchase of products made in Canada by workers in Canadian factories was lacking in strength or logic, if it was not meeting with a ready response from the great majority of Canadian consumers, no one would pay any attention to it. It would perish of neglect. It becomes interesting, therefore, to note some of the isolated objections that have been raised against it.

Not a Huge Monster. The commonest criticism runs something like this: That the purchaser who buys a foreign-made article pays a certain sum of money in the form of customs duties on it. This money goes to the National Treasury, helps run the country and helps keep our soldiers on the firing line. Whereas if the purchaser buys "Made-in-Canada" product no duty flows into the National Treasury, and according to the theory of the critic an amount corresponding to the customs duties is pocketed by the manufacturer in the form of increased profits. Those who take this position cannot see beyond the manufacturer. That is their difficulty. To them the capitalist industry is an obsession. They regard him as a huge monster, reaching out for every dollar that the Canadian consumer has in his pocket, and thinking nothing of the welfare of Canada or her citizens as a whole.

The Case of Plows. One Western farmer has written a letter to a prominent Western farm paper explaining that he bought an American-made plow because the duty on it would go to the Government. Has this correspondent no regard for the thousand workmen or so who would be employed in the Canadian plow company, whose goods he rejected in favor of the foreign article? Do they do nothing for Canada? Are they of no value to the community in which they are working and spending their wages? Are they not contributing through their daily purchases just as large a portion of our national revenue as is the farmer? In the transaction in question this particular farmer paid, we will say, $5 to the Dominion Government in the form of duty. A Canadian plow factory writer has in mind in a Western Ontario town would probably average 1,000 employees, whose average wage would be $20 per month, or $240 per year. Every dollar of this income is spent in Canada. It is spent for food and clothing, for furniture, furnishings, etc., some of which will necessarily have to be imported, and on which duty will be paid. Assuming that the average employee only pays 2 per cent. of his income out in the form of customs duties or $15 in round numbers in a year, we have a contribution from the employees of this factory alone of $15,000 to the national exchequer.

A Bad Example. If every farmer followed the example of our correspondent and bought a plow made in United States there would be no plow factories in Canada, and not only the $15,000 contributed to the national revenue by this one firm's employees would be lost, but also thousands of dollars by the employees of other plow and implement factories, which would be forced to close down through lack of business. What of the tradesmen who supplied these Canadians with the necessities of life, and the mechanics who built their homes, paved their streets and operated their transportation systems? What of the doctors, lawyers, school teachers and clergymen who minister to their social and spiritual needs. It is a peculiar strain of patriotism that would impel a Canadian today to forsake his home, to a foreign country for a foreign product, to build foreign workshops, to develop foreign towns and cities, and increase prosperity in a foreign country at a time when his fellow citizens are suffering from lack of employment, when there are breadlines in some of our cities, and when we are straining our national resources as never before to keep the wheels of industry turning and the ship of state on an even keel. This is not a time for individual choice and action. It is a time for national co-operation. Keep the workmen in Canadian plow factories employed. Busy workmen will keep our national revenue buoyant and achieve the object which our Western friend had in view when he bought the foreign plow.
